CIA Memo, 4 July 77

Auth: DAI REG. 77/1763

Weekly Summary Report.

Date: 29/01/78 By: 008

1. In implementing DCI directive assigning covert training organizationally to Director of Training (Change to CIA Regulation dated 1 July 1951), I have asked Advisor for Management to conduct a survey with the aim of producing a plan for the reorganization of the Office of Training that will assure the utmost security protection for covert operational training, consistent with my responsibility for all Agency training. Exploratory conference has been held. The survey itself began today.

2. During the week, [redacted] discussed with representatives of each of the Military Services the proposed training of CIA career personnel by the Services. These meetings stemmed from General Marshall's letter of 23 June to General Smith which in effect authorized such training and suggested such discussions to firm up details. Progress of discussions to date has been satisfactory. Immediate aim is to send small numbers of non-ROTC college graduates (now employed by CIA or due to be in the near future) to the Services for entry into OCS and other appropriate training beginning October-November. These young men will be on active military duty in all respects, and after their Service training will return to CIA as part of the Services' active duty quota to the Agency. On completion of required active duty service, it is expected that they will pursue a CIA career in full civilian status rather than as military reserve officers.

4. [redacted] of my staff and I discussed the proposed career corps program with designated Personnel officials. Substantive agreement was reached.

5. On Wednesday, Major General A. R. Bolling, USA, delivered to students of the new CIA Intelligence School their first major lecture. The School opened 23 July in Alcott Hall for selected trainees who will be trained for three months in fields ranging from intelligence methods and techniques to the role of intelligence in government and international relations. Intensive Russian language training is included.
